Winter Birding

Sunday, April 16, 2017

8:00 – 10:00 a.m.

Halibut Point State Park, along the Atlantic migratory path, is an excellent locale for birding species you rarely see anywhere else. Birds are now returning from their winter vacation, so we might see some recent arrivals as well as winter residents, now planning their trip back north.

Meet Peter Van Demark in the parking lot for this approximately 2 mile stroll along graded paths and the rocky coastline. Learn how to identify some common and uncommon shore, migratory and feeder birds by sight and sound. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Rain or shine. Bring your binoculars!
